Introduction
Between 16 March and 30 March I went to Guadeloupe and Martinique (part of French Antilles) for a holiday. I was there with my girlfriend Marieke Wiringa, our daughter Joop and son Bob. Our main objective was to have a nice pleasant holiday, for me also on the agenda was to see all island endemics plus some photographing. We had a very pleasant holiday with most birds seen after some effort.

Birds
Birding on Guadeloupe and Martinique is rather easy. Birds are everywhere, in the hotel garden, in the nature reserves, in the mountains and along the coast. Both islands hold one single-island endemic. Guadeloupe has the Guadeloupe Woodpecker and Martinique has the Martinique Oriole. The woodpecker is common and easy to find on Guadeloupe, the oriole on Martinique is difficult and requires some preparation and effort, but in the end I managed to see one very well.

Itinerary

16 March
Departure from Amsterdam at 8:05 hours with flight AF 8229 (Air France). Arrival at Charles de Gaulle International Airport at Paris at 9:30 hours, the luggage had not arrived, due to a mistake at the check-in in Amsterdam (thanks to KLM). Our plane for Guadeloupe was scheduled to depart from Orly Airport at 12:00 hours, but we arrived there at 12:00 hours without our luggage. However, the next flight departed at 15:00 hours. We arrived around 19:00 hours at Guadeloupe. There a taxi brought us to Deshaies where we would stay for a week at Les Terrasses de la Baie in a nice bungalow with good forest in the surroundings. On our way we picked our rental car and finally we arrived at around 21:00 hours very tired.

17 March
Deshaies and surroundings. First birds were Bananaquit and Lesser Antillean Bullfinch. The only Lesser Antillean Swiftlets were seen after a short thunderstorm. Other birds seen today were Magnificent Frigatebird, American Kestrel, Zenaida Dove, Green-throated Carib, Antillean Crested Hummingbird, Guadeloupe Woodpecker, Caribbean Elaenia, Grey Kingbird, Black-whiskered Vireo, Yellow Warbler, Grassquit, Lesser Antillean Saltator and Carib Grackle.

18 March
Deshaies and surroundings. We visited also Grand Anses, a large beach north of Deshaies. Almost same birds as yesterday, but with Ruddy Quail-Dove (heard), Ringed Kingfisher, Snowy Egret, Green Heron, Purple-throated Carib, Brown Pelican and Brown Boobies.

19 March
We toured the northern part of the island, with a short stop at Plage de Clouny, where we saw a distant Red billed Tropicbird at sea. Also we checked Corossal and Bras David (places for the wet forest birds), but this was so crowded we did not even leave our car. In the afternoon at Deshaies I tape-lured a Plumbeous Warbler.

20 March
The usual routine at Deshaies, visiting the beach, some birding around the bungalow. The usual birds were seen, except for the first Mangrove Cuckoo and, very strange, a singing Forest Thrush near the Bungalow - although at that time I didn't realize that (more later).

21 March
In the morning I drove to the Vernou Area along road D23. First I birded the trails at the Picnic area at Rivière Corossal, where I found Brown Trembler, Pearly-eyed Thrasher, Scaly-breasted Thrasher, Plumbeous Woodpecker, Scaly-naped Pigeon, Ruddy Quail-Dove (heard), Guadeloupe Woodpecker and Purple-throated Carib. Next I visited the area north of the D23, as explained in Where to Watch Birds in Central America & the Caribbean (page 326), but I did found only some more Brown Tremblers and heard another Ruddy Quail-Dove. I could not found any Bridled Quail-Dove, nor any Lesser Antillean Pewee, Lesser Antillean Flycatcher or Lesser Antillean Euphonia. In the afternoon I saw a Royal Tern in the harbour of Deshaies and a Northern Waterthrush in the mangroves at Grand Anses. In the evening I heard the Forest Thrush again at Deshaies, but I still didn't believe it.

22 March
Usual routine around Deshaies. In the late afternoon I heard the Forest Thrush again. I quickly ran to patch of forest w here I heard it and managed to record its song. During playback it only called back, but it was too dark to see it, although I was certain it was a Forest Thrush!

23 March
In the early morning I returned to the forest patch where I heard the Forest Thrush. After some listening I suddenly found this beautiful thrush skulking on the forest floor and I saw all diagnostic field marks! At noon we returned our rental car, took a taxi to the airport and took the 14:40 flight to Martinique (AF 3943). There we arrived at 15:15 hours in time, went to Avis the collect our car (VW Polo) and went straight to Domaine de Sainte Marie at Sainte Marie on the eastern site of Martinique. A round 16:30 we arrived at the hotel, which proved to be a resort, with no restaurant and quite boring surroundings, but with a beautiful swimming pool (and close to the Presqu‘île de la Caravelle). Most notable bird was a Grey Kingbird, feeding in the dark at the parking lot of the hotel!

24 March
Some vacation activities and birding from the hotel veranda. Highlights were a Merlin flying past, Bare-eyed Thrush, a heard-only Martinique Oriole, Scaly-breasted Thrasher, Caribbean Elaenia, good sightings of a Mangrove Cuckoo, Purple-throated Carib and Tropical Mockingbird.

25 March
In the afternoon we drove north, finding no restaurant open. Usual birds were seen.

26 March
In the morning I went to the Presqu‘île de Caravelle. Just before where the ruins start there is a small path to the left. After a few 100 meters there are information signs telling which birds can be found. At the sign with the Martinique oriole, I managed to find the White-breasted Thrasher. I did not want to tape-lure them, but when I tried to tape-lure Lesser Antillean Flycatcher, a pair of Thrashers responded vigorously and showed itself very well. Others birds seen where Yellow-headed Warbler (chestnut-headed race), Mangrove Cuckoo, Lesser Antillean Saltator, Bare-eyed Thrush, Scaly-breasted Thrasher, White-breasted Thrasher and Zenaida Dove. I couldn't find any Martinique Orioles, but a French birdwatching family advised me to try the Trace de Jésuites, which is also good for wet forest species. They also told me that Antillean Euphonia was most easy in the northern outskirts of Fort-de-France. In the afternoon we (Marieke, Joop, Bob and I) had lunch between Marigot and Sainte Marie and at the restaurant we had good close looks of Purple-throated Carib and saw the only Shiny Cowbird of the holiday.

27 March
In the morning the usual activities. In the afternoon we drove into the mountains, but Bob got car-sick. During the stop just west of Tamarin, we heard a singing Rufous-throated Solitaire. At Tartanes we looked for a restaurant to eat, but everything opened at 9:00 PM and with little children this was not an option. So again we had dinner in our bungalow.

28 March
In the early morning I drove into the mountains to hike a part of the trail called Trace de Jésuites. During a stop along the route D1, just before the route N3 I had excellent views of a Martinique Oriole, heard Scaly-naped Pigeon and several Rufous-throated Solitaires and Grey Tremblers. Along this very nice trail I saw Blue-headed Hummingbird (at least one at the start), Green-throated Carib, Grey Tremblers (1 seen close), Rufous-throated Solitaires (1 seen beautifully!), Lesser Antillean Flycatcher (heard only), Ruddy Quail-Dove (heard-only) and several Broad-winged Hawks. On my way back I heard another Lesser Antillean Flycatcher, Martinique Oriole and the only Lesser Antillean Pewee (stopping along the road was not possible, around every corner a driver with suicidal tendencies lurks!) and lots of Caribbean Elaenia. Because we had seen enough of Sainte-Marie, we drove south to le Diamant, took a nice small hotel. From our room we could see the rock called Rocher du Diamant with at least twenty Red-billed Tropicbirds flying around it!

29 March
Relaxing day, swimming pool etc. Birds seen where Green-throated Carib, Antillean Crested Hummingbird, Magnificent Frigatebird, Broad-winged Hawk, Zenaida Dove, Eurasian Collared Dove, Bananaquit, Grassquit, Lesser Antillean Saltator, Red-billed Tropicbird (nine at the rock), Sandwich Tern and Cattle Egret (flock of 24 flying to evening roost).

30 March
Last day. Evening flight to Paris at 21:10 hours (AF 657). Plane was full, but flight was quiet.

31 March
Arrival at Orly Airport in Paris at 11:00 hours. Next we took the shuttle bus to Charles de Gaulle and from there we departed for Amsterdam in time at 14:15 hours (A F 1940) and arrived at 15:35 hours. My father picked us up at the airport and brought us home. After a long traffic jam, we arrived at around 18:00 hours in Alkmaar.

Acknowledgments

I would like to thank the following persons: Jur en Netty van der Laan, Annet Meijers, Anthony Levesque and the French birders I met at the White-breasted Thrasher and who advised me to go to the Trail de Jésuites.
